GLOBALQUEST

When I was younger and had a lot of time to kill, I was fond of reading 'potboilers'. These are novels of the suspense -thriller genre, usually dealing with 'cloak -and-dagger' themes. They are called such because once you start reading them they are hard to put down and you forget whatever it is you are doing including the food that you are cooking.

Acknowledged masters of this kind of writing include Frederick Forsythe, John Grisham, Tom Clancy and the late Robert Ludlum. The latter became my favorite when I read his most famous book, 'The Bourne Identity'. However, I remember most vividly the plot of one of his last works, 'The Parsifal Mosaic'. The villains in this book were a group of rich guys, members of a Club of Billionaires, who controlled the largest business conglomerates in the world. In a confrontation with the hero, they explained to him that all they were doing was trying to save the world. Through the calculated use of kidnappings, bombings, assassinations and other violent acts, they were hoping to weaken the power of 'nation -states' and transfer control of the world's population to 'Multinational companies'. Countries were anachronisms. They were inefficient and wasteful unlike the world's top corporations. They were prone to graft and corruption unlike successful business firms where this is easily checked by the automatic firing of erring personnel. Lastly, when Corporations struggle with one another, this is usually done at the negotiating table without loss of life and not in the battlefield! I almost bought their 'logic'! But then I realized that the 'end does not justify the means' and I was glad that this misguided group got their comeuppance at the end of the book.

Editor Jerome Gaerlan

In 1905, a group of men led by Paul Harris formed a group which met regularly for purposes of simple fellowship. They were not billionaires and they had no ambitions of world domination or saving the world. Still their organization grew to its current size of about close to 2 million voluntary members in 163 countries. Note that Rotary has no intention of replacing or toppling governments but rather, it seeks to work with them as an NGO partner. Instead of calculated violence, Rotary has adopted the principles of truth, fairness, genuine friendship and service to guide its members. Our Rotary Club is one of the 30,000 clubs worldwide that are heir to the legacy of Paul Harris and his group. Let us keep this legacy going by recruiting like -minded people into our Club. Let's not listen to those who want to keep our Club at its present size because they feel that a large number of members make a Club difficult to manage. Had Paul Harris and company adopted the same attitude Rotary would not have lasted more than a few years. Besides, just to stay the same size, we must keep on recruiting new members. To reach the critical mass to make a difference in the lives of the almost 5 billion people worldwide, Rotary still has a lot of growing up to do from its current size.

I don't think the story of Rotary would make a good 'pot -boiler'. The literature of Rotary and the speeches of Rotarians may even put you to sleep. Admitting that, one must however mention to newcomers that at least Rotarians who are true to the principles of the organization sleep soundly at night, knowing that they are part of a group that truly makes a difference and not just kill time.

The Mind of Reybo

A wife asked her hubby – "How many women he had slept with?" Husband proudly replies: "Only you DARLING with the others I was awake!"

Husband: "Ano ba? Parati tayo nag -aaway! Maghiwalay nang atayo!"

Wife: Sige! Maghatitayong mga anak!

Husband: "Akin ang mga guwapo't maganda!"

Wife: "Sus! Piniliniyayunghindisakanya!"

Two strangers at a corner were watching two women approaching... Man#1: "SHIT! Here comes my wife and my mistress," Man#2: "Funny, I was about to say the same thing!"

Did you know that condoms have SERIAL NUMBERS? It's on the rim. You don't know that huh? It's probably because you don't troll them that far...

For your information... A Pig's orgasm, according to the Science Info Center, last for 30 minutes. (Just in case your wondering what you wannabe on your next life!)

Sec. Reggie C. Chan

Do you still remember high school? We were young, free spirited, noisy and playful teen-aged boys then. We loved hanging out with barkadas and had gimiks everywhere. We teased and made fun of each other to the point of making somebody pikon but still remained friends. And our favorite of all, we made all sorts of creative moves in order to impress girls. Some guys had girlfriends, others didn't, and a few, well let's just say prefer their own kind. Last week's meeting reminded me of high school. Actually, every meeting does, but more so last week because there were ladies around. And I am certain that the Eagle Team did quite a performance because of their presence. Eagle IPP Richard who was the emcee, day chairman and team leader was the mastermind of all the pakulo that day. Eagle Rtn Jong lead the invocation, Four Way Test and National Anthem three in a row without sweat. Eagle Rtn Ming with his cheerful looks and bright personality gave a friendly welcome and greetings, and announced the birthday celebrants for the week. Then all of a sudden, romance filled the air when we serenaded the Innerwheel members with a classic Filipino love song led by Rotarian Mike. The atmosphere drastically changed and turned into a room of chuckles and giggles when funny man PP Yves gave an amusing Friendship Session with the IWC, whom he called darlings, as its theme.

Our guest of honor and speaker, President Susan Prieto of the Innerwheel Club of San Fernando La Union gave a light and inspiring talk. She said, women are talkative because when a rib was taken out from Adam, Eve used it as a microphone. But she talked and it was just enough, and the more we listened, the more we felt how blessed we are to have them as our partners, co-sowers of seeds of love. It was a romantic, comical, meaningful and unforgettable day. Pres. Rex adjourned the meeting with a happy face.

PRESIDENTS' CORNER
President Rex O. Mendoza, Jr.

Human Resource is the most important asset of any organization. In Rotary, increase in human resource means life and the continuous movement of the Rotary wheel around the world. For the highest achievement in membership recruitment in the district for RY 2001 -2002, IPP Jerpy Erquiza, welcome to our regular Tuesday meeting!

August is membership month and I believe that one way of sustaining and encouraging others to join us is by showing them what we do. So to all the members, especially to the new ones, why not join us in the different weekly community activities of the Club. For sure, you will feel bored, pressured and will give you some problems on your schedule but I will assure you that the smile and "thank you" of our soon to be beneficiary will melt your heart.

According to our Area Secretary, we were the first one to pay the 1st Semester RIDues in the district and among the few in the whole Philippines, a tradition that we have to live into. We have done it because of all your help in getting sponsors and those who supported us in operation zero project, as follows:

(Rotary Classification Talk)

From disaster and public safety to training. One of the teachings that I've got from the Master of Pranic Healing, Master Choa Kok Sui is - if I want to learn more and know more, I have to teach people - if I want to be motivated, I have to motivate people - if I want to be healed, I have to heal - and if I want to succeed, I have to help others succeed. With those in mind, I started training people and eventually put up a learning and training center.

Why training? In training there is no right or wrong, no grade to comply with, noencylopedia, nor Mr. Webster to consult to. In order to draw the definition of life and words, we use structured learning activities and we based their learning on their experiences, their capacity to absorb, their openness and their wholeness.

Why training? Because if I want a disaster free and good place to live in, I have to start training people for them to find their special place on this earth, and by doing so, I may find the best place for me on this earth, in this lifetime.
